NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

The growing use of money in elections is forcibly shown by some statements regarding Massachusetts made in an article on the subject by the Boston Journal—the best authority in matters of political corruption anywhere to be found. It says it cost a member of Congress who was elected from one district $15,000, while his opponent, who was defeated, expended an equal amount. In another district, where the Republican plurality was 3,000, the amount paid by the successful candidate was $12,000. Even such a paper as the Journal thinks that the time has come in Massachusetts when the whole system of election expenses should be brought under proper restrictions by legal enactments.

John G. Thompson, U. S. special timber agent, died at Seattle, W. T., yesterday, his disease being of the heart. The immediate cause of his death was exposure to the weather in the discharge of official duties. Thompson was one of the most noted politicians of the State of Ohio; he was several times a member of the State Legislature, was Sergeant-at-Arms of the U. S. House of Representatives, and was a political lieutenant of Senator Thurman. He was 50 years of age, and leaves a family in Columbus, Ohio, to whom his body will be sent.

The President has made the following nominations: Henry White, of Maryland, Assistant Secretary of Legation of the United States at London, to be Secretary of Legation, vice Wm. J. Hopkin, resigned; Chas. Phelps, of Vermont, to be Assistant Secretary of Legation of the United States at London; John D. Kennedy, of South Carolina, to be Consul-General of the United States at Shanghai; to be Attorneys of the United States—Allen B. Bushnell for the Western district of Wisconsin, Louis L. McArthur for the district of Oregon.

The Secretary of War and several prominent army officers will go to Philadelphia Saturday to receive the remains of General Hancock, and will accompany them to Norristown to fire a military salute over General Hancock's grave. This will be the only military ceremony on that occasion, as the funeral is to be a private one.

The reports that Attorney-General Garland will resign from the Cabinet, on account of his connection with the Pan-Electric Telephone scheme, are entirely without foundation. The President has no idea of asking Mr. Garland to resign, and the Attorney-General has no notion of resigning.

Hugh Mohan, Secretary of the Silver Association, has issued notices for a second convention to be held on Wednesday of next week, at which a bill will be prepared providing for free coinage, and will be submitted to Bland, Chairman of the Coinage, Weights and Measures Committee.

The House Committee on Public Building and Grounds has authorized Henley to report favorably the bill for the erection of a Postoffice building at San Francisco. The success of the bill is generally assured.

The nominations of Pillsbury and Chase, to be Collectors of Revenue, respectively, at Boston and Portland, Maine, will be reported adversely.

General J. C. Rowley died at Chicago Tuesday after a short illness. He was Grant's Secretary during the closing years of the war.

Hurrah for Germany! The silver men have downed the gold bugs in the Reichstag by a vote of 145 to 119.

Horatio Seymour is the next great and prominent man whose death may be expected.

It is reasonable to suppose that now the site for the U. S. building has been accepted by the Government, the work of its erection will soon commence, although red tape may defer it for some time yet.—Carson Tribune.

STANFORD'S MAIDEN SPEECH.

It Proves Effective in Securing a Needed Appropriation.

Riddleberger's attack upon the bill appropriating $350,000 for a site for the new Postoffice in San Francisco was evidently not because of any objection to the measure, but because it furnished him with an opportunity of assailing his former friend Mahone, who is Chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings. At the time he began his speech Stanford, Everts and the Quaker Senator Chase, of Rhode Island, had their chairs pulled together and were engaged in conversation. When Riddleberger spoke of the San Francisco Postoffice bill, Mahone looked back to Stanford, indicating that he should defend his own measure. Stanford moved over to where Riddleberger was speaking. The Senate soon filled up with members, who are always eager to see any scenes that occur on the floor.

When Riddleberger got through his attack on Mahone, Stanford rose to make a reply. It was the first time he had risen to make a speech, and according to the courtesy of the body, a Senator's virgin effort is always received with marked attention. All the Senators laid aside writing, their papers and books and turned toward the new speaker. Stanford spoke clearly, but with force, and in a short time had so presented the needs of San Francisco for a new Postoffice that he convinced the Senate that Riddleberger's attack was unjustified. He said that San Francisco is a city of 300,000 people. It had the promise of being a very large city. The present Postoffice building was erected years ago, when the city was much smaller. The needs of a Postoffice have outgrown the capacity of the old building. It is now insecure, and the next earthquake may raze it to the ground. Beside the urgent necessity for a building, the San Francisco Postoffice pays to the United States Government a net revenue of between $400,000 and $500,000 annually. The Postoffice Department of the Government was conducted at a loss of $8,000,000 last year, yet the San Francisco Postoffice paid a profit of half a million. Stanford concluded his short speech by saying that a new building was absolutely and unequivocally demanded, both by the needs of the service and justice to the city.

The morning expired before a vote could be taken on the bills, and when they were brought up again in the afternoon Riddleberger was not in his seat, and they were passed without further discussion.

The President's Views.

The President Tuesday said to a member of Congress: "I feel myself bound by every consideration to protect the Chinese who are in this country under treaty stipulations with a foreign power from violence or outrage. I have no doubt that the evils of Chinese immigration are keenly felt by the workmen of the Pacific Coast, but that furnishes no justification for any assault upon Chinamen. I think the opponents of the immigration on the coast are injuring their prospects for further restriction of immigration by this lawless crusade against the Chinese. An orderly way of procedure is the best way, and if attempts are made to expel the Chinese from the country by force, such conduct will be repelled by the exercise of all the strength of the Federal Government."

Who Will Succeed Hancock?

Brigadier-General Howard, commanding the Department of the Platte, said Tuesday night in the course of an interview regarding the succession of General Hancock: "Next month there will be two vacancies, caused by the death of General Hancock and the retirement of General Pope, respectively, the senior and junior Major-Generals of the army. The probable two successors will be General Terry and myself." Military officers here are of the opinion that General Howard will be the successor of General Hancock, and that his appointment will be made within a few days.

Although a great difference of opinion existed concerning the proper location of the U. S. building the fact of the certainty that it must be gone ahead with, acts as a plaster to wounded hearts and pockets.—Carson Tribune.

The Stanford Banquet.

A Washington dispatch says: Senator Stanford's spacious residence, on the corner of Seventeenth and K streets, was the scene of superb and unstinted hospitality last Monday evening. This luxurious dinner, to which the guests were seated at 7:30 o'clock, was given especially to the Pacific Coast delegation, all of whom were present except Congressman Henley, Markham and Felton. Those present were Senators Everts, Bowen, Jones, Dolph and Teller, and Congressmen Morrow, Lottitt, McKenna, Hermann, Symes and Woodburn. Senator and Mrs. Stanford presided. The dinner was splendid and beautiful in its appointments. Ten courses were served. California wines were served throughout, save one change to French champagne. California red wine was substituted for Burgundy, and white wine went with the oysters. The clusters of fresh fruits, oranges, bananas and apples that brightened the table here and there came in from California late yesterday afternoon. It was literally a California banquet—a typical banquet from the Golden State. Even the vegetables grew upon the hillsides that slant toward the Pacific. The courses were arranged by Madame Demoret, of this city, but the dishes were prepared by the Senator's caterer. The tea and coffee service of solid gold was from the California mines on massive golden trays; the forks and spoons were of hammered silver, of rich designs; the china was hand-painted Dresden, Vienna and Paris ware, and each plate was distinct in itself, containing some historic portrait or scene, or some old design. The "Raid on the Sabine Women" adorned the plate of Senator Everts, and the face of Mary, Queen of Scots, looked up at Senator Dolph when he reversed his plate. The table was spread in the finest of white damask, relieved in the center by a large basket of roses, flanked on both sides by an oval plaque of Jacquemuets. The company was received in the long oriental parlors, where bright and beautifully blended colors presented an almost enchanting picture.

Tilden's Birthday.

Samuel J. Tilden celebrated his seventy-second birthday Tuesday. Messages of congratulation both by mail and by telegraph were received. In the afternoon, he rode a long distance northward from Yonkers, and on his return he slept for an hour, as is his custom. Many neighbors called in the course of the day. Tilden looks remarkably well, and since last Fall has gained twenty pounds in weight.

August the Third.

S. F. Bulletin.

The Grand Army of the Republic will pitch their national camp in San Francisco Tuesday, August 3, 1886, and the encampment will continue during the week. Definite replies to many inquiries may now be given from headquarters in this city. Yesterday over 6,000 circulars and programmes were mailed to Eastern posts. The committee here is informed that widespread interest exists throughout the New England and Middle States, and marked activity prevails in the Western State regarding the encampment. At this time it is impossible to make a correct estimate of the numerical strength of the encampment, but it is an acknowledged fact that the coming reunion in California has awakened greater interest in Grand Army affairs than has been created in any annual gathering since the organization of the fraternity. The trip is a long one but the universal desire in the ranks east of the mountains to visit the Pacific Coast, coupled with the knowledge that the railroad companies are making unprecedented low rates of fare, will certainly assemble in this city a vast army of war veterans.

There is some regret here that the encampment is to take place in midsummer. A date six weeks earlier or two months later for climatic reasons would have been designated by Californians had the choice rested here, but the Eastern people wanted a date after harvest and before the seasons of autumn business. The tourists, however, after crossing the Continent in midsummer will find the ocean breezes of San Francisco very refreshing and agreeable. The weather will be just the kind desired for marching and maneuvering outdoors.

The Committees appointed to collect funds necessary to defray local expenses of the encampment are preparing for active work and the subscriptions so far indicate that a fair measure of success will be attained.

WORKING OUT.

Auburn Herald.

Miss Carrie Josephine, replying in the Nevada Transcript to a complaint made by a correspondent that it is next to impossible to secure female help to take the place of the Chinese, says: "There would be little difficulty in obtaining female help if women who 'work out' were treated as other laborers are." Miss Carrie is right. We preach that honest labor is honorable, and yet as a rule we do not honor those who labor. This is true as to both sexes, but more so as regards females. As Carrie says: A miner, a farmer, a clerk, or a hostler, is respected and admitted to considerable social distinction; but let a "servant girl" knock for admission to society and she is at once made to feel that no servant girls need apply. As a rule the best men we have, estimate on the basis of true manhood, are the miners, the farmers, the clerks and the hostlers. As a rule also the best women we have, those who make the best wives and best mothers, are those who would rather work at any honorable calling than be idle, especially when their circumstances are such as not to justify idleness. There are few men who ever amounted to anything that can say their mothers did not work. The mothers of the best part of the present generation at some time in their lives "worked out," and their children are better for it. The girl who works out to-day may yet call some great Statesman, some noted divine, some distinguished warrior, or honored inventor, her son. This is much more likely than that such matronly pride will ever fall to the listless, idle, aimless bird of fashion. All honor to those who work, and especially to the girl who scorns to be dependent so long as independence costs no greater sacrifice than honest toil. The girl, however, who works out has more to contend with than the man who works out, and for this reason, instead of being exposed to slights in any way, she should receive extra encouragement, and should under all circumstances have the hearty recognition of all honest and honorable people. We should make "working out" so eminently respectable that all our girls would seek a place, for a season at least, for the inestimable benefit which the experience would be to them in after years.

NEED OF RAILROAD EXTENSION.

The Austin Reville says:

The great outlook for Owens Valley and the farmers is the extension of the Carson and Colorado road 110 miles further south to the Mohave, on the Southern Pacific Railroad. The hay, grain, meat and other products of the valley could then be shipped to a profitable market in Arizona and New Mexico, a monopoly of which business is now enjoyed by Southern California. This monopoly has done much to make the prosperous times in Los Angeles and other southern counties have enjoyed for the past four years. There is not at present, however, any probability that the Carson and Colorado road will be thus extended. The result is that there being little sale for farm produce in Owens River Valley, the best improved farms there are dull of sale, and can now be bought for ten to fifteen dollars an acre. The Carson and Colorado Road carries in supplies to Southern Nevada at low rates, but, of course, it cannot carry out farm products 500 miles to California (which would, besides, be carrying coals to Newcastle), at a rate that would leave any profit to the farmers. The Central Pacific Railroad makes a prohibitory tariff on California agricultural supplies entering Nevada so as to protect the farmers of the latter State from competition with those of California; but, meantime, from all points between Ogden and Truckee the railroad charges Nevada freight $1 per 100 pounds more than is charged on through freight for the much longer haul to Sacramento or San Francisco. The Central Pacific Road water-carries Nevada farmers and gives them a low rate on all articles they can ship east or west, but it still heavily bleeds the State on goods coming in from the East. California and San Francisco are, perhaps, thereby somewhat benefited, but how Nevada likes the system is another question. There is no competing road and no water ways, and when Nevada kicks, the railroad folks simply hold her nose and pour the freight draught down her throat against her will, in the same firm but forcible way that our nurses in resisting childhood smoothed the route of corrective castor oil doses on the way to our fevered stomachs.

The Governorship.

The Carson Index says: It is reported by a gentleman who has traveled about considerably as a commercial agent, that Governor Kinkaid is strongly the favorite among the rank and file Republicans for the next Governor of Nevada. It would not surprise any one were he to be nominated. He is, or probably will be, in the field before the Summer is over.

THE PUBLIC BUILDING.

The Folstone Block Accepted by the Authorities.

Treasurer Tuffy received the following letter Tuesday:

Mr. George Tuffy, Carson City, Nevada.

SIR:—The Department has decided to select as a site for the public building authorized to be erected in your city, the property offered for sale by you for this purpose, Block Eleven (11) as shown in the plat of your city and fronting one hundred and seventy feet (170) on King, Musser, Division and Minnesota streets, respectively. Your proposal for the sale of this property for the sale of this property for the sum of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) is hereby accepted. The Attorney General has been this day requested to instruct the United States Attorney for the District of Nevada to procure the necessary title and deed of conveyance to the United States and when these papers are received at this Department with the approval of the Attorney General, as required by law, payment of the purchase money will be made. Respectfully yours,
C. S. FAIRCHILD,
Acting Secretary.

The block is the one originally selected by the committee.

Diphtheria.

This dreaded disease, or something similar and just as bad, says the Enterprise, is too alarmingly and fatally prevalent on the Comstock at the present time. Bad sewerage is assigned as the cause, yet it is only a few days since unusually heavy rains and melting snow flushed out all the sewers and thoroughly washed and cleansed all the streets and hill-sides. Unusual dampness of the atmosphere, combined with other conditions of the season and of the human frame, not altogether understood, evidently have their detrimental influence. At any rate, ordinary prudence suggests the propriety of seeing that our children are carefully cared for in the matter of proper clothing, judicious food and in all ways regulated as to their general health.

Come to Join the Minstrels.

Dicky Jose, the famous sweet singer of Reno, left last night to join Charlie Reed's Minstrels. Dicky has the strongest, sweetest and finest tenor voice this side of the Sierra Nevada, and he will form an important addition to any company of singers with whom he may associate.

Meeting of the Director.—The Fair to Open October 4th—Re-Election of Officers.

The Directors of the State Agricultural Society met yesterday, President Stevenson presiding, and Directors Flint, Baily, Dangberg, White, Leete, Evans and Powning being present.

The action of the President in appointing Jesse D. Carr to represent Nevada at the National Trotting Association meeting at Chicago, was ratified.

President Stevenson, Secretary Stoddard, and Directors Leete and Flint were appointed as a committee to revise and prepare the Premium List and Speed Programme for the Fair of 1886, and directed to report at the next meeting.

After discussing the merits of the proposition it was decided to hold the Fair October 4th to 9th inclusive.

The Board then proceeded to elect officers for the ensuing year. Mr. Powning nominated Mr. Stevenson, for President. Mr. Stevenson stated that he did not wish to serve another year, and nominated Mr. Powning. Mr. Powning and the other Directors insisted upon Mr. Stevenson standing in, and all voted for him. He reluctantly consented to serve. C. H. Stoddard was re-elected Secretary, and C. T. Reuder, Treasurer.

The Board then adjourned to meet Saturday, Feb. 27th.

The Golden State.

The Walker Lake Bulletin says:

Within a very few years Nevada will produce a greater quantity of gold than any other State in the Union. It seems incredible that the prejudices of mining men should so long affect the real interests of so large a mining section as is comprised within the boundaries of Nevada, but such is the case. The first great discoveries were silver mines and the State became a Silver State. The State line had much to do in determining the character of the ore, and a proposition to work a gold mine in Nevada met with but little favor. It had become a fixed belief that nothing but silver bearing ores could be made pay and all other rock was neglected.

Suddenly it was discovered that gold was plentiful and could be easily obtained in some places. This prompted a search in others, and now the mining news is principally composed of records of gold discoveries and shipments. Capital would once invest largely in the grade silver mines, the production of which required expensive methods of extraction, and pass over with indifference or contempt gold bearing ledges of equal value per ton and much more easily mined and reduced. All that is changed and the State is already feeling the new life and excitement of profitable gold mining. This time the prosperity will be lasting as the experience of deep mining has shown that the greatest wealth lies deep and that any ledge which paid on the surface will finally richly reward persistent search in deep workings.

What an Actual Settler Is.

S. F. Call, January 31.

An interesting point in the law governing entry upon State lands was decided by the Supreme Court, yesterday, in passing upon the Los Angeles land case of Garrett vs. Mohr. The Court defines an actual settler as one who establishes himself upon the land or fixes himself upon it to take possession for his exclusive occupancy and use, with a view of acquiring title to it by purchase from the State. Therefore, an actual entry upon land belonging to the State, followed by making improvements upon it or building a house thereon, in which to reside, must be made. This occupation is evidence of settlement, and gives the occupant a right to purchase the land.

SENATORS FROM A PAGE'S STANDPOINT.—Writing of the Senate pages, a Washington correspondent says: "These pages are generally shrewd chaps. They study the habits and character of Senators and members, and get things down to a fine point."

"Which Senator do you like the best?" I asked of a bright little fellow employed as a page in the lobby.

"You ought not to ask me that question," replied the lad, "Somebody might get hold of what I said and print it, and then I would lose my place. I don't mind saying, however, that Senator Ransom is a mighty nice man. He don't like to be bothered when he is busy, but he is good to all the boys. So are Dan Voorhees, Jim Fair, Don Cameron, Jack Logan, Tom Bowen, Joe Blackburn, Randall Gibson, Bob Vance, Bill Allison, General Cockrell and General Maxey. Old man Cager isn't half so cross as some others, and John P. Jones is a daisy. We don't go around old man Edmunds, John Sherman, old man Brown, of Georgia, and a few others very much. Generally all the Senators are clever to us boys, but once in a while some of 'em get mad at us, and then look out."

The Walker Lake Bulletin says:

A number of substantial and estimable citizens are doubtless adding up rows of figures indicating their probable strength in a fight for the office of Governor. Everyone has a right to aspire, but as only one can be chosen it is proper that Republicans should begin looking around for their best man. Some are afraid that the present rather weak minded and faint hearted Governor, but willing and anxious wire puller, will be re-elected. This fear is not well grounded. His day is past, for he is now known by the people who formerly thought that that he was only illiterate. There are others of his party though who are both good and able men who would like to occupy his place, and the Republicans should prepare for a severe contest. While we have many possible candidates whom nearly every Republican would be glad to support it will be difficult to find one who will meet the popular wishes so fully as John H. Kinkead, who has a record as a dignified capable executive in full sympathy with the people, alive to the necessities and duties of his position, and above the alternate truckling and bullying course of the present incumbent. Popular because his courtesy is part of his character; he losses no friends through deceit or broken promises and now three years since he held the highest office in the State he holds through his personal influence, a higher position in the eyes of the people, than the Governor who can command no respect except such as is exacted under the lash of political necessity. Mr. Kinkead would be a popular candidate, and while many others would be freely supported, it does appear that he will if a candidate receive more votes and better suit the people and the office than any.

DODGE'S MAKE IT.—The "Dude" nine of the baseball players of Reno were badly beaten on Sunday in a severe contest with the "Scrub" nine by a score of 18 to 61. The Dudes went home discouraged and unhappy. It is bad enough to be a dude, but to be beaten by a scrub is terribly worse.—Enterprise.
